Orders are not applicable to casino bars. While Las Vegas remains largely open for business, Gov. Steve Sisolak of Nevada ordered the bar to be closed again in several counties on Friday in an effort to alleviate the spread of COVID-19 in the state. We know that COVID-19 can spread easily when people gather for a long time, such as inside bars, Sisolak said in a statement, citing similar actions to close bars in states like Texas and Florida. Recently, Dr. Fauci, a leading U.S. infectious disease expert, suggested that gathering in the bar poses a major risk and is one of the most dangerous things people can do right now. According to the Reno-Gazette journal of Nevada, Sisolak's COVID-19 response team declined to correct why the casino was not affected by the new order in a press release on Friday. The governor's communications office did not immediately respond to a request for comment from Travel + Leisure about how or if the order affected the casino. In addition to closing the bar - originally allowed to open on May 29 - in some parts of Nevada, Sisolak limited seats at restaurants across the country to no more than six people at the table, Sisolak added: This is not a decision I like to make, but I can assure you that I did not make it lightly... Protecting the health and safety of Nevada is, and always, my top priority. Now that means reimplementing some of the restrictions. these to save lives and protect our health care system. Nevada records patients confirming covid-19 virus infection More than 80 percent of Nevada's health response was reported in Clark County, a significant increase from when Nevada first reopened more than 8,900 confirmed cases nationwide at the time. With the addition of the T-Mobile Stadium in Las Vegas, it also came to the city's first professional sports team: the Golden Knights, the Vegas National Hockey League expansion team. Built in 2016, the stadium is a thoroughly modern complex with the aim of providing the best fan experience. Easy to see from the Strip with neon pink light, the circular stage has 20,000 seats, including 44 luxury suites, two party suites and more than two dozen private log boxes. Premium balconies at VIP seating levels and public level make fans of the hotel's seats. There are places to cool down when the game gets heated. Food and drinks, including Shake Shack, are rare, and of course, free Wi-Fi. The Vegas Golden Knights made the T-Mobile Stadium their home rink for most of the year. During the off-season, the venue holds a boxing match. How's the game, the awards show and the concert? There are no bad seats in this arena, but like most sporting events, the experience and perspective depends on the ticket price. Seats in the lower bowl and in premium seats and suites, where dessert carts swirl around, offer sweet apple cakes and spirits - it's pretty money, but even the seats upstairs aren't absolutely cheap. Good for kids? Children are definitely welcome here. Is there anything special that makes this place special since programming is a unique feature? Before each home game, a parade game in the park will feature drums, cheerleaders and mascots, all working to hypnotize the fans. As they enter the fortress, The liqueur here goes beyond what you'd expect with a cocktail program designed by renowned mixologist Tony Abou-Ganim; the atomic-fizz home drink consists of a grey goose, Le Citron, Aperol, agave nectar, agave pear puree, lemonade and soft drinks; and on the top floor is the Hyde Lounge; the 18,000-square-foot space is divided into the Stella Artois Lounge lounge and grey goose lounge. If we're in town, what and who do you think this is best for? Hockey fans born in Las Vegas should definitely visit. - This is one of the few arenas around the country where you can catch the game and then walk outside to eat, drink, gamble and generally let the party go. But anyone who wants to see the other side of the city, apart from slot machines and magic shows, will love the high energy of the fortress. As the name states, Container Park is an outdoor mall built using 40 old containers. What can we find here, or what should we look for? It's a mix of shops, restaurants and entertainment here, but there's no usual big brand you see in your home department store, and there's a wedding church, too. On the entertainment side, there is The Dome, a small 25-seat theater that screens short videos on the ceiling, often accompanied by loud rock music and wild light. Put in a few child-friendly shows and have a wonderful Treehouse play area with 33-foot slides - children and adults are welcome. Renting an electric bike from Trikke Las Vegas is a fun way to explore sightseeing during your trip, or grab a handful of Japanese toys from Kappa Toys and go wild for a cash-based experience at LOVO Cigars, or while out for a day in the Oak & Ivy bar. Get a funky necklace from an art box. People staying in Vegas often travel to the container park to breathe fresh air, or just see a 40-foot-tall Mantis sculpture that breathes fire, any secret tips, or don't go home
